We recommend accreditation with a spot check in the first 18 months. However, evidence should be submitted within six months to demonstrate that a full risk assessment of the premises has been conducted.

Summary statement

The British Council inspected and accredited London Language Foundation in April 2016.

The Accreditation Scheme assesses the standards of management, resources and premises, teaching, welfare, and care of under 18s and accredits organisations which meet the overall standard in each area inspected (see www.britishcouncil.org/education/accreditation for details).

This private language school offers courses in general English for adults (18+) and for closed groups of under 18s (16+).

The inspection report stated that the organisation met the standards of the Scheme.

Comments
There is a General English course which runs for three hours every weekday morning. Students are allowed to enrol on any number of these sessions and are required to cover the content of any missed classes in their own time. A similar general English course is organised along the same lines during the early evening but consists of two hours a day from Monday to Thursday. There is an afternoon IELTS course which runs for two hours every day. Enrolment and attendance conditions are the same as for the general English programme.

One-to-one classes are organised on request but form only a small part of the total provision.

Introduction

The London Language Foundation (LLF) is a not-for-profit organisation limited by guarantee. LLF was founded in April 2014 and started offering classes at the Brit College in June 2014. Many of its students live locally and some may also be in full or part-time work. The school's aim is to offer courses which attract both students locally and from overseas. The governors and school's owners understand that it might require several years to build up student numbers. In the longer term, Brit College would be pleased to allow LLF to take over the whole premises. Currently the school is a registered examination centre for external examinations in spoken English and hopes to offer teacher training courses in the future as well as ESP courses. LLF plans to accept 16 and 17 year-olds in closed groups only, or if accompanied by an adult family member who is also studying at LLF.

The initial inspection in June/July 2015 took place over one and a half days. There were interviews with the principal, the head of marketing (who acts as deputy principal), the registrar and the course leader (who deputised for the director of studies) and the administration and recruitment officer. There were focus groups with the teachers and with both the morning and evening students.

The supplementary inspection in April 2016 took place on one day. There were interviews with: the principal and director of studies (PDoS), who had been appointed in September 2015; the director, who had been the principal in 2015; the administration and student recruitment officer (ASRO); and the administration and student welfare officer (ASWO). There was a focus group with the students and a meeting with the teacher who was working on the day of the visit.

Comments

M2 There is a clear structure of management. All management and administrative positions are part-time. The PDoS comes into the school three days a week and is available by phone and email at other times. The director is usually in at least two days a week and is able to liaise with the PDoS and other staff. The two administration officers (ASRO and ASWO) cover all five days between them. Reception staff from Brit College are available throughout the week. This arrangement is appropriate for the current level of operation.

M3 Job descriptions are not available for all positions and those that do exist are brief and do not reflect all the roles and responsibilities. They are also undated and unsigned.

M4 There is a range of regular formal and informal meetings which ensures communication throughout the school. The location of all the administrative staff in one office means that there is ongoing communication. Minutes of regular formal meetings generate action points which are followed through and recorded. In addition, minutes of meetings by the school's governors showed regular communication between the school's management and the board.

M5 There are clear policies and procedures for the recruitment and appointment of staff. Appointments are made subject to satisfactory interviews and appropriate qualifications. Checklists are used during interviews to record notes in a systematic way.

M6 Reasonable steps are taken to investigate the qualifications and experience of prospective employees. However, there was only limited evidence of the collection of references to confirm teachers' experience.

M7 All staff receive an induction and there is a formal orientation programme supported by appropriate guidelines and checklists. The induction covers a range of health and safety and professional issues.

M8 A formal appraisal system has been introduced and evidence was seen of completed appraisal forms for three members of staff. The staff handbook outlines the appraisal policy and disciplinary and capability procedures.

M9 All staff have been involved in external educational, welfare and health and safety training courses and are encouraged to keep a log of any sessions they have attended. Internal training has also taken place.

Comments

M10 Students commented positively about the helpfulness and friendliness of the staff. Reduced student numbers results in less pressure on resources although additional help may be hired during peak periods if required.

M13 Students have to provide all emergency contact details as part of enrolment and staff ensure that these are kept up to date. The information is accessible at all times to the ASWO who at the moment is the only person who has the emergency phone. The emergency phone is not shared on a rota basis.

M14 There are clear policies on attendance and punctuality, which are made known to all students during their induction. Students do not receive a certificate if their attendance is below 80 per cent. Samples of warning communications to students were noted on file. Records from paper registers are regularly entered into a database and the administration officer telephones students if they are absent for more than three sessions. Special rules are in place for 16 and 17 year-olds if they are recruited in the future.

M15 Conditions under which a student may be asked to leave the course are given in the terms and conditions of enrolment. Staff were also aware of these rules.

Comments

M17 The school had carried out a full self-evaluation using the Accreditation Scheme's criteria before both the 2015 inspection and the supplementary inspection. In addition, the principal reviews the school's development for the governing body. Reports of action taken as a result of these processes were noted.

M18 A student feedback form is administered in the first week and again at the end of the student's course. It is often not clear whether the forms on file contain initial or final feedback as the same form is used for both occasions and it is often not dated. A space for action taken in response to points raised in the feedback form was not completed in the examples seen by the inspectors. The collation and dissemination of feedback is very limited.

M19 Staff are informally asked for feedback during meetings. Staff comments had on occasion been recorded in the complaint files and there were records of action taken.

M20 There is a complaints procedure given to students in writing and in accessible English. Recent issues had been dealt with in a systematic way and recorded in writing.

Comments

The publicity consists of a website (including links to social media).

M21 The publicity is generally clear and accessible. However, one or two errors of spelling and sentence formation were noted.

M24 Most of the required information for this criterion is given. However, the number of taught hours is not specifically given, as courses are described as 6, 9, 15 hours with "a short break of 10 minutes", so they are in fact 5h 40m, 8h 30m, and 14h 10m.

M25 The approximate cost of course related fees for the IELTS examination is not given.

Management summary

The provision meets the section standard. The management and administration systems operate to the benefit of students and staff, and in accordance with school publicity. Communication is satisfactory and attention is given to ensure that staff are informed, share ideas and are given opportunities for professional development. The administration of students is client-focused and effective. Quality assurance procedures for gathering and acting on feedback require some further development.

R12 Teachers are asked to provide feedback on the resources they use and make recommendations for further acquisitions.

Resources and environment summary

The provision meets the section standard. The school's general environment supports the studies of students and the work of staff. #### Comments

T6 There is a policy of matching teachers to classes and levels depending on their experience and interest. Deployment of teachers is also affected by student feedback and teachers may be asked to teach those classes where they have had successful track records.

T7 The decision to timetable one teacher for the whole course allows teachers flexibility in tailoring the course content to meet student needs.

T9 New students can start on any day of the week. As the coursebook is used in a linear way, students must cover any work they have missed in class. Teachers use a range of strategies for welcoming new students into class.

T10 The PDoS has introduced formalised arrangements to assist teachers in planning and delivering their courses and to provide guidance and support for teachers in their own professional development. Evidence of this was seen in the CPD logs kept by staff members.

T11 All teachers have been observed at least once by the PDoS, who is TEFLQ. Detailed notes are kept on each observation and are shared with the teacher. Action points are noted.

Comments

T12 Teachers use recently-published coursebooks, which ensures that materials and classroom methodology are mainly up to date. For each course there is a scheme of work which outlines a timed pathway through the book and highlights course objectives and appropriate learning outcomes. Teachers are free to supplement the book as required.

T14 In very general terms, courses follow the structure and sequence of the students' coursebooks although teachers are allowed some flexibility depending on the requests of the students. Specific information on course content and intended learning outcomes is provided through the individual learning plans as well as the scheme of work.

T15 The PDoS has recently focused on ways of developing learner autonomy by holding a workshop on the subject and by pointing out how learning strategies can be included in the scheme of work and the individual learning plan. Nevertheless, there are missed opportunities in the design of courses to include study and learning strategies that support independent learning and help students to continue their learning after the course.

T16 There was some evidence in the schemes of work that courses included specific strategies to ensure that students can develop their language skills outside the classroom and benefit linguistically from their stay in the UK.

Comments

T23 Generally teachers demonstrated a sound knowledge of the linguistic systems of English and presented suitable models for the different class levels being taught.

T24 Teachers usually adapted their language to the level of the students and sometimes provided differentiated lesson content and activities. However, sometimes there was insufficient simplification of classroom instruction to help students understand.

T25 Lesson objectives were generally expressed clearly and met the needs of the students. There was an awareness of students' different learning needs although these could have been expressed more precisely. In addition, lesson content was sometimes a little easy or too difficult.

T26 Lessons progressed logically and moved smoothly between the different phases. Teachers' signposting of teaching phases in the best segments observed assisted learners in following the progress of the lesson. Schemes of work highlighted learning outcomes for each section of the coursebook and how these might be assessed. However, sometimes a loss of pace resulted in the lesson objectives becoming less clear.

T27 A selection of resources was used to facilitate learning. Whiteboards were generally used to good effect and some appropriate use of computer technology was noted. Pictures and small card prompts were used effectively to promote student interest and interaction.

T28 A range of appropriate teaching and learning techniques was used to achieve the course objectives. Teachers promoted student engagement through elicitation techniques, including mime and gesture. The most successful teaching used techniques to promote student interaction and the personalised use of new language. Sometimes, however, the meaning of new words was only explored through definition and insufficiently through use in context. All students would have benefited from more spoken practice of the new language and more work on accurate pronunciation. Although teachers always praised their students enthusiastically, there was insufficient correction and exploitation of student errors, particularly in the area of pronunciation.

T29 All teachers had an engaging classroom presence. Instructions were usually clear and time limits were often appropriately set for classroom activities. Teachers were skilful in grouping and re-grouping students for greater variety in student interaction. The more successful teachers prepared students well for tasks providing clear examples together with the appropriate pre-teaching of useful language. Sometimes teachers did not provide enough support during student group work.

T30 Class profiles revealed that generally teachers were aware of the individual needs of the students in their classes and demonstrated their sensitivity to students' cultural differences. There was a very positive atmosphere in the segments observed, which were also characterised by good humour and productive student interaction. Students in the focus group were positive about their teachers and clearly were enjoying their lessons and reported they were making progress and learning well.

Classroom observation summary

The teaching observed met the requirements of the Scheme. The teaching overall was satisfactory with the majority of segments seen being good. Teachers showed a sound knowledge of English and presented good models for students to follow. Lessons were planned and classroom activities were coherent and purposeful. Techniques were varied and appropriate, with a number of suitable resources being used to promote learning. However, sometimes definition was the only approach used with new vocabulary. More correction overall of students' errors would have increased learning. Teachers had a good presence in the classroom and generally managed their classes well. There was a positive learning atmosphere and students spoke enthusiastically about their teachers.

Teaching and learning summary

The provision meets the section standard. The academic manager is appropriately experienced and qualified. The teachers have appropriate qualifications and they are given sufficient support to ensure their teaching meets the needs of their students. Programmes of learning are managed for the benefit of students. The teaching observed met the requirements of the Scheme.

Comments

W1 The provision for safety and security is good. The reception area at the entrance is staffed at all times during the day and locked when the evening classes are running. Visitors are required to sign in and out. There is CCTV coverage of the external entrance, internal corridors and communal spaces. A thorough fire risk assessment has been conducted by a competent authority. Fire alarm tests and evacuation drills take place appropriately. The inspectors were told that general risk assessments of the premises have been carried out by external organisations on behalf of Brit College. However, the school could only provide limited evidence of these risk assessments and further evidence should be provided.

W2 Pastoral care is appropriate for the existing students, who are all local residents aged 18 and over. Students commented that all the staff are friendly and caring. A multi-faith prayer room is available.

W3 The welfare officer is clearly identified on a photo-board in the reception area. She is also identified in other internal documentation.

W4 The school has clear policies and procedures for dealing with abusive behaviour and these are described in both the staff and student handbooks. A policy has been set up in line with the Prevent duty, with appropriate training for staff.

W5 Students are issued with an ID card containing the 24-hour emergency contact number. As commented on in M13, this emergency phone number is held by only one person and should be rotated among other staff.

W8 Good information is given on medical rights. There is also a very useful practical advice sheet on local health centres, pharmacies and procedures for using GP surgeries for medical matters.

The provision meets the section standard. The needs of the students for security, pastoral care, information and leisure opportunities are met, and are appropriate for the current student profile. However, there is only limited evidence of risk assessments for the premises. Accommodation is not currently provided but the school is making appropriate steps towards such provision.

Currently all students are aged 18 and over. In September 2014 the school provided a tuition-only course for 15 students on an Italian government scheme, which included five 17 year-olds. To date these are the only under 18s that have been accepted. The school would like to attract similar groups in the future and now states in its publicity that they can accept 16 and 17 year-olds in closed groups only, or if accompanied by an adult family member who is also studying at LLF. These groups will only be accepted when Brit College students are not in the building, for example in the summer period. There is no intention to accept students under the age of 16.

C1 The safeguarding policy is thorough and accessible. It addresses the key areas, including safer recruitment, handling allegations and referrals, and assessment of risks and safeguards specific to the context in which the school operates. The welfare officer (ASWO) and the PDoS are the designated safeguarding lead and designated safeguarding person. They need to complete their specialist safeguarding training in the near future, and inspectors were told that arrangements were in place for this.

C2 All teaching and administration staff have had initial safeguarding training. A summary version of the safeguarding policy is available for other relevant people.

C3 The safeguarding policy is available on the website. More information is given in the parental consent form which will be sent out to any 16 and 17 year-old enrolments. The parental consent form describes the level of care and includes consent for emergency medical care if appropriate.

C4 Recruitment procedures make reference to the school's commitment to safeguarding and inform applicants that references will be specifically asked about suitability to work with under 18s.

C5 All staff have DBS checks. The safeguarding policy states that group leaders will be asked to provide an appropriate certificate of good conduct or similar check from the relevant and approved authority in their own country.

C6 General arrangements for the supervision and safety of students outside lessons are described in the safeguarding policy. More specific arrangements will be required when a group is actually enrolled.

C7 The school has not yet provided any accommodation. They intend to work with accommodation agencies registered with the British Council who can select accommodation for under 18s appropriately. The school is aware that they will need to monitor this provision.

C8 The parental consent form allows for the exchange of emergency contact numbers.

Care of under 18s summary

The provision meets the section standard. The school has defined the type of provision it wishes to offer to under 18s and when it can offer it. The school has produced an appropriate safeguarding policy and requires suitability checks on all its staff. Training for all staff has been introduced. Issues relating to safer recruitment, suitability checks for group leaders, and parental consent have been addressed.
