

CREATIVE SPARK

Higher Education Enterprise Programme

The Tbilisi Statement 21 Nov 2018

We agree that the advancement of entrepreneurship and enterprise related education provides a useful contribution to longer term social and economic development, and the related national policies provide an important supporting framework for this development, especially for the creative economy sector.

The importance of the role of universities and other educational institutions is recognised in this progression, including the role of the English language, and we encourage and support their efforts, especially through international partnerships with the UK, and the Creative Spark Programme
