Introduction

Background

West London English School (WLES) runs courses for adults and under 18s in its premises in Shaftesbury House. It also makes use of nearby premises belonging to the University of West London, as needed. One classroom was being used at the time of this inspection. In the summer, WLES plans to run young learner courses jointly with West London College, in the college premises, which are a four-minute walk from the school.

At the time of the last full inspection, WLES used accommodation agencies registered with the British Council to provide homestay accommodation, but in 2020 began to recruit homestay hosts which are managed directly by the school. During the period of the pandemic, it was not possible to inspect the new accommodation systems fully. The main aim of this spot check was to inspect and report on the management of the accommodation provision, with particular reference to the care of students aged under 18 being accommodated in homestays.

WLES currently offers accommodation with a small number of homestay hosts. During the week of the inspection, five homestay were being used to accommodate 12 students aged under 18 and one adult. Most students arrange their own accommodation, or accommodation is arranged directly by the students’ agents.

Preparation

As this was a signalled inspection, the inspector contacted the school and a suitable time for the inspection was agreed, when there was a group of under 18s studying at the school, some of whom were staying in homestay accommodation arranged by the school.

Programme and persons present

The inspector arrived at 10.00 and left at 13.15. She had meetings with the managing director, the director of studies, the accommodation officer, two group leaders and a representative group of students. She scrutinised documents relating to accommodation and safeguarding.

Comments
WLES accepts groups of students aged under 18 throughout the year and runs a summer school for young learners aged 12–17. At the time of the inspection there was a group of 35 students from Brazil and Uruguay, 30 of whom were under 18, studying on a two-week course. In total, there were 33 students aged under 18s enrolled at the school.

S3 This criterion is met overall. However, for students in the Brazilian group the parental consent form for each student includes the signature of the parent/guardian but not their full name and contact details. The details of the group leaders are given instead. Parents'/guardians’ details have been made available separately to the school by the group leaders. For any individually enrolled students the parental consent form contains full details of the parents/guardians in addition to a signature.

S7 A male adult student from the Brazilian group was being accommodated in the same homestay as two boys aged 15 from the same group.

S8 For the students in the Brazilian group, arrangements are in place for contact between the school and the parents/guardians to take place via the group leaders.

Action taken on points to be addressed

Management

M2 Plans do not relate to the organisation’s goals and values and do not contain steps, waystages and a time frame. Addressed. The organisation has clear objectives for the future of the organisation and has realistic plans to achieve them.
M9 Job descriptions are at times vague and unclear and there is no evidence of review. Addressed. Job descriptions are clear and have recently been reviewed.

Premises and resources
P6 Teachers share a central office landscape of limited size with administrative staff; storage space is also limited. Partially addressed. New storage cupboards for staff have been constructed. Teachers use the kitchen which has some seating and have the use of classrooms when lessons are not taking place. However, there is still limited space in which staff can relax.

Conclusions
The homestay accommodation arranged by the school is suitable: systems for recruitment, induction and the relaying of information and guidance to hosts are very robust. Information given to students about their homestay accommodation is comprehensive. Feedback from group leaders and students about the homestay accommodation arranged by the school is very positive. Suitable arrangements are in place to ensure the safety of under 18s in their accommodation. However, a request from the agent to place a male adult with two boys aged 15 from the same group resulted in S7 not being met. The accommodation officer has been made aware of this criterion.

W1 is also not met because the school has not conducted a risk assessment for its use of the premises it occasionally uses in University of West London premises.

Points to be addressed from the last full inspection have been successfully addressed. For the point which has not been fully addressed (P6), significant improvements have been made.
